[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Recall of Japanese Students.

NEW YORK, August 31.--Hono Mori writes to the London Times that all the young men sent out by the Japanese Government to Europe and America with a view of applying themselves to study of different branches, have since been ordered to return home. Students at present number over six hundred. The reason given for the recall is that upon the return of students from Europe and America they were unable to bear a satisfactory examination in the studies they were pursuing. This failure is attributed to the want of a knowledge of the language of the country in which they studied. The Japanese Government acting upon this have resolved to send no more students abroad until such time as they have undergone some three or four years' tuition in a home college and can submit to a rigid examination in English, French and German.

Over the Falls.

READING, Pa., August 31.--This morning a boat containing two men and a woman, was swept over the falls in Schuylkill river, near Kissinger bridge, in this city. One of the men and the woman were drowned. Their names are Charles Harmony and Mary Herbert. The other, a young man named Hoffman, escaped by swimming. He made a statement to officials to the effect that that Harmony rowed the boat intentionally over the falls, thereby carrying out a threat he had made that the people would not see him much longer. He had difficulty with a woman last night in a beer garden, which is supposed to have led him to the deed. The woman's body has been recovered.

[illegible] Votes and [illegible] of Bolts.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.--A Tribune special from Springfield, Mass., says Butler is developing more strength in some quarters than was expected. His chances of carrying the Convention have improved within a few days. Still no intelligent and partial canvass can yet be made that does not leave him in a minority of at least 100. His friends did not do so well in Boston as they expected, nor in Newburyport. Their success in Lowell and Lynn was [illegible] --The result now chiefly depends on Butler's success in getting any considerable portion of the small towns of the rural districts. He has been manipulating them very [illegible] though secretly through the State House lobby and Federal office holders, but there is no reason yet to believe that he can carry enough of them to give him a majority. The contest is growing very warm and there is much excitement throughout the State. There will certainly be a bolt if Butler carries the Convention, and another Republican will run. If he (Butler) is beaten in the Convention his bolting is still doubtful, but he is evidently making ready to do so if he dare.

The Democratic Convention this week is of no account. Their candidate would not get 1,000 out of 130,000 if Butler runs.

PRINCE NAPOLEON AND THE FRENCH ARMY.

The N. Y. Times of the 21st inst. contains this epistle, dated July 25th, 1873, from Prince Jerome Napoleon to Marshal MacMahon, President of the French Republic:

I am a French citizen. Your Government has honestly admitted my right to that title by repudiating the persecutions of your predecessor. I belong to the army. On that point also I claim no privilege but the plenitude of my right. Appointed General of Division by the Emperor Napoleon III, by the terms of two decrees, one of the 24th of January, 1853, rendered by virtue of powers the French nation had delegated to him, the other of the 5th of March, 1854, issued in the ordinary form, I have held that rank for nineteen years. I had the honor to command a division in the Crimea, and to cooperate in the victories of the Alma and Inkermann. In Italy I commanded a corps d'armee by the side of you, Monsieur le Marechal. The last order on the service that I received at Chalons in 1870 was signed by Marshal de MacMahon, commanding in chief of the army. In a word, my position is as regular as that of any General or Marshal, and in support of my claim I invoke only military laws which guarantee to any officer a right to his grade. You kindly afforded me your devoted aid when I was Minister for Algeria and the Colonies; you were a witness at the birth of my children. These recollections assure to me your good will. Yet the Minister of War has omitted my name from the Annuaire Militaire of 1873, and he replies to my claim by refusing to entertain it. I appeal to you, Monsieur le Marechal, for justice. Am I struck off from the rolls of the army? By what authority can the decrees of the Emperor have been annulled in so occult a manner, without any of the forms which guarantee the rights of every officer? Or is the omission of my name from the Annuaire the result of an error? The Minister of War, in reply to a letter from my representatives in Paris, appears to recommend me to make my application to the Council of State. It appears to me to be inverting the parts, as it is for the Minister, if he contests my right, to obtain the annullation of the Emperor's decrees. I repeat, therefore, that I am a General of Division, and confiding in your equity, I ask you therefore to acknowledge my rank by subjecting me to the military laws and regulations.--Receive, &c.

NAPOLEON (JEROME,)
General of Division.

The Paris correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune says of the Prince's claim:

Prince Jerome Napoleon comes this time asking Government to reinstate him in his rank as Division General of the French army. The Government tries evading, deferring direct answer, and hopes the Prince will become tired, or may be coaxed out from pressing such an embarrassing question. This quite a mistaken calculation. Prince Napoleon reminds the Minister of War that he is General of Division by virtue of two unrepealed decrees, one dated February 1853, and the second issued on advice of the then Minister of War in 1854. In the records of the War Department lies the indisputably official copy of Marshal MacMahon's order dated August 1870, commissioning Prince Napoleon for a peaceful service in Italy. The Minister of War and the rest being dilatory and indefinite, the astute Prince, who either is or is not Major-General in the French army, sends in formal application to Minister of War for a furlough. To grant it or to refuse it an admission of the claim. Adjournment with coaxing may answer the embarrassed Ministers' turn for the moment, but it will drive him finally into a fatal corner where he must stand and deliver his and his Government's clean decision on the validity of the princely General's claim.

A MURDERER IN CHAINS.--The Williamsport (Penn.) Gazette says that the handcuffs have been removed from the murderer Wade, he having broken the pair put upon his wrists, and that he is now bound by an iron collar and chain. It says: The iron collar goes round the neck [illegible] with a lock, and the chain [illegible] from the collar [illegible] giving the prisoner the privilege [illegible] cell. Recently a visitor to the jail, in passing along from cell to cell, was startled by a man leaping from his bed. It was Wade, and as he struck upon his feet he seized the chain, [illegible] it upon the floor, and gave a yell that made the situation rather an unpleasant one for a person looking upon the criminal for the first time. In conversation Wade said he had gold enough to make a longer and heavier chain than the one he was dragging around. He is rather severe upon the Sheriff for thus ironing him, and he thinks that he would be given more liberty if he was a first class Republican, but he says [illegible] [illegible]

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

CORVALLIS, August 28, 1873.

The subject of Civil Service Reform commends itself to the candid consideration of every lover of political purity. It has only to be presented to the honest mind to secure its ready and hearty indorsement. We have had it often and ably presented of late, but it cannot be too persistently pressed upon public attention, until the now small and fateful beginning grows to a complete ending.

The principle and practice of political patronage has been one of our greatest elements of political corruption. It has eaten almost into the heart of our national life. The commencement of the late struggle for national existence found every department of Government corrupted and weakened by its means with subservience to slavery and the interests of rebellion, and but for the purity and patriotism of the non-officeholding masses the struggle for national life would have been weak and short.

Political patronage makes party service the only test for office. It often removes the fit and faithful public servant to make place for the unfit and unfaithful party tool. It has made our country a vast auction room where offices have been sold to the highest bidder--not indeed, for money, but for a return of political favors. A cry of holy horror went up from over all the land, a few months since at the alleged attempt of Pomeroy, of Kansas to buy his way with money to the National Senate. But for nearly half a century offices have been bartered and bought in this other way, with never such a cry of righteous indignation. How much less sin is it to buy an office in this way than in that?

"To the victors belong the spoils" is the cry on every accession of a party to power. The fallacy is in the assumption that the offices are the spoil of the vanquished party, when, in truth they belong to the whole people, and it is the people's right that they should be given to those who will most faithfully and ably fill them.

Honesty and ability being equal it might be right that the political friend should be preferred to the political foe, except for the introduction of this element of corruption. It is indeed, a right of the President to choose his counselors, and it is his right to choose those who will carry out the policy of his administration, but in the great majority of offices which have nothing to do with the policy of the administration, competency and capacity should be the only tests. England, Prussia and even heathen China, are far ahead of us in this matter.

It will be to President Grant's lasting credit that he has given the system of political patronage the first mortal blow. The course of civil service reform has not, indeed, been smooth. The President is doubtless sincerely endeavoring to fulfill the promises made in the last campaign, but he has had opposition in his cabinet, and he is fiercely beset by a horde of ravenous politicians. They are natural enemies of civil service reform, and fight doggedly against it. It is not at all to be expected that they will meekly submit to a system which deprives them of so much power. The rules and regulations that have been adopted to determine the fitness of candidates for office are no doubt far from perfect, but the principle is correct, and must ultimately prevail.

What is needed now is that the hands of the President shall be strengthened in this matter, and much more than this, that some system of civil service reform--the best that can be devised--shall become a part of the law of the land, and thus be placed on a more firm and enduring basis than the mere will of any President.

Let our rulers and national legislators understand that the honest public opinion of their constituency is in favor of the measure, and that the will of the people cannot be safely disregarded. Let them know that the eyes of the people are upon them, and that every act of opposition to it deepens a political grave for the opposer, because strong presumptive evidence of deficient honesty. Let the voice of the press be heard loud and clear in its favor. If the press says that civil service reform shall be, it will be.

With political patronage purged from our political system we shall be stronger to fight against the growing power and corrupting influence of money and of moneyed corporations.

THE LATE RAILROAD COLLISION AND LOSS OF LIFE.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22.--The following account of the collision on the Marietta and Cincinnati Railroad is from passengers who arrived here this morning. The Hillsboro and Loveland accommodation train, to which the accident occurred, left Montgomery Station on time. The freight train bound from Chillicothe to this city, in charge of conductor Puet, was behind time. It is said his watch was fifteen minutes slow, and it is reported the engineer (Smith) and he had some words at Loveland, in which the engineer said he would get him into difficulty before he got to Cincinnati. At any event, the freight train started expecting it could to make the switch at Montgomery station, but failed, the collision occurring at a sharp curve while the freight train was running on a passenger train's time. The two engines grappled each other, reared upward and stood almost erect. The baggage car following the passenger car has remained on the track, but the shock was terrible to the passengers, none of whom, however, were seriously hurt. Charles Rotler, fireman, remained on the engine with his father, [illegible] the other engineer, and was crushed between the [illegible] and tender, and the father escaped without apparently serious bodily injury, but appeared so moved by the excitement of the disaster that he came from the wreck with a disordered mind. A brakeman, James Gerrage, had in response to the signal "down brakes," wound up his brake and was assisting the baggage master, Samuel W. Howard. When the shock came both were immediately crushed to death. Both resided at Hillsboro, Ohio. Walter Rhodes, express messenger of the city, brother of [illegible] Rhodes of Adams Express, received injuries from which he died just after reaching Cincinnati at the depot this morning, making four deaths in all. The other injuries received were [illegible] but it appears [illegible] men who bravely remained at their post at [illegible] their lives saved the passengers from a fearful casualty.

His associates, the tailor Knapper and the butcher Brod, were condemned to the same punishment.

At the Berlin University the question has been raised by the juridical faculty whether the use of German language had not better be substituted for Latin in scientific dissertations, since the Latin vocabulary is scarcely suited to the new order of things in Germany, and the want of clear and intelligible expressions is much felt. The proposal has, however, been rejected by a vote of four to five.

At the burning of the Whatcom sawmill recently the Indians fought the fiery demon in a manner that would do credit to a Chicago fire department.

A man named Levin was wounded last Friday in Tacoma quite severely by the accidental discharge of a pistol in the pocket of his pantaloons. He is getting along all right.

It is cheaper to live than to die in Salt Lake. The Washington House is furnishing meals at fifteen cents. We wonder what Geo. Washington would say if he were to come back and see his hotel feeding people at that rate?

Capt. Adam Boyd, died in Seattle August 27, aged 74 years. The deceased was a native of Rockland, Maine, and had followed the sea from boyhood. He leaves two sons, Capts. William and George Boyd, and four daughters, two of whom, Mrs. S. F. Coombs, and C. F. Stone, are residents of Seattle.

The editor of the Olympia Courier has a work on medicine published in 1550 by Balthasar Arnoullet, of Lyons, and written by John Ruellius of Soissons. Its nomenclature gives the name of every plant, animal and substance in Greek, Latin, Gallic, Italian and German. As a relic of the olden time it is venerable.

A gentleman just in from the country [illegible] little damage has been done by the rain, but that in the river bottoms considerable cut grain has been a good deal injured, and a great deal remaining uncut broken down so as to cause much inconvenience, if not actual loss.

The Third Annual Fair of the Western Washington Industrial Association will be held at the city of Seattle on the 1st, 2d, 3d and 4th days of October. We understand that such preparations are making as cannot fail to insure the success of the Fair, both as an agreeable entertainment and as an exhibition of the industries of the Territory.

Last Tuesday evening the Constable of San Juan Island visited Whatcom, and turned over to Sheriff Cootes an insane man named Harry Derk, who imagines himself to be an immense menagerie, filled with all manner of wild beasts, which are continually fighting, growling and howling at each other. We'll wager a small sum that he has been eating cucumbers or something of that nature.

Sheriff Davisson, of Pierce county, was arrested and fined $20 for an assault on Rev. Dr. Atkinson, in Tacoma, on Thursday, 28th ult. He went to the reading room [illegible] by the latter, seemingly under the impression that it was a liquor saloon, and used very bad language, also brandishing a loaded revolver, and making himself disagreeable. He was under the influence of liquor at the time, which probably accounts for his actions. The Tribune says: "There is a very strong feeling of indignation in Tacoma against Davisson, and his misdemeanor will be properly represented to the Commissioners at their next session, with a view to his impeachment from the office."

The Beacon publishes extracts from a private letter written by John H. Timmen, in which he claims to have discovered a new pass through the Cascade mountains, which he thinks is the best and lowest of all. The route is up the Lewis river. He proposes that a petition should be gotten up for a Territorial road leading from Kalama to Fort Simcoe, and says: "It would open one of the finest timber regions on the coast, and make accessible iron enough to construct a double track around the world." Besides, the moment a trail is cut from here to Spilgre, it will be traveled by hundreds of people during summers to visit Mount St. Helens and a thousand other things of interest there. It would be a grand highway between Kalama and Yakima valley."

The New York World dishes up Utah affairs thus: "Salt Lake City is infested by a number of ruffians who have been driven away from Pioche, Virginia City, Carson and other places in the West. If they have any regard for the law it is only when they take it into their own hands and make it, so to say, their own property. There is now or is soon about to be a number of prosecutions of fallen women at Salt Lake, and Tom Williams was likely to be one of the strongest witnesses for the prosecution in one instance. To prevent his appearance at the trial Billy Kirby casually met and shot him, so that he will probably die. The affair is coolly taken as a matter of course, and when the trial of Kirby comes on there will be any amount of false swearing done, but, on the whole, it is likely to go hard with Billy Kirby. If one ruffian cannot kill another who will testify against him, what is the use of being a ruffian at all?"

The Puget Sound Express says: The dogfish--a species of shark--so common in these waters were never appreciated until very recently. Indians and others have always supposed that all that these fish were good for was to keep the immense machinery of our saw mills in a greasy condition, for which the dogfish oil is superior, and to produce this oil millions of dogfish from the waters of Puget Sound have been cooked and have rewarded with thousands of dollars their captors. But the Castlenook fishery establishment on this bay has demonstrated the fact that heads and fins of the dogfish are as remunerative as other parts of its body. Excellent glue can be made from these parts of the fish, and the Castlenook establishment now exports to France kegs and barrels filled and neatly packed with the heads, fins and tails of the Puget Sound dogfish. With Frenchmen it is as great a luxury as a feast on frogs or snails.

ARE YOU READY TO DIE?--Traveling in his buggy alone not long ago, in going to one of his appointments, one of our good brethren in the Presbytery of Memphis overtook a tramp with his carpet bag in his hand. The roads were muddy, and he was just at the time about entering a dry bottom. With the politeness for which he is noted he asked the pedestrian [illegible] stranger if he would not take a seat in the buggy until at least they had crossed the [illegible] The invitation was readily accepted, and the conversation for a time [illegible] ordinary and general. TACOMA, August 29, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The DAILY OREGONIAN is welcomed and perused at the free reading room. While your Eastern and Southern exchanges came they were also equally sought. For some reason they fail now to reach the tables. Strangers and citizens seem glad to receive the privileges of the room, and when asked, are glad to aid in its support. The cost of the tent and its furnishing is not yet paid up, but the wish to make it permanent, appears in a fair subscription of money and labor to erect a building for use this autumn and winter, in place of the tent. Last night and this morning a dozen carpenters voluntarily subscribed twenty days work to put up the building. The bill of lumber is partly sawed this morning, and by Thursday next, the building will be up, furnishing a good place for the free reading room and for the use of the Church on Sabbath, and for lectures, until every Church can get its lot and erect its edifice in the new part of the town.

Carpenters are waiting for work, while choppers and clearers are busy. One of the latter told me last evening that eighty acres are nearly cleared. The logs and stumps are bored and set on fire, or piled and burned up together, ready for the sale of lots and the erection of buildings. Orders are expected from New York for the sale of lots at the real [illegible].

A SPECIMEN CASE

Possibly the dispatch in regard to the treatment which the people of Nevada are receiving at the hands of the railway may be inaccurate. If it is not, there is certainly a case sufficiently strong to call upon the general or local government or both for relief. The dispatch is to the effect that the Central Pacific Railway Company discriminate so severely against Nevada in their freight and passenger rates that it actually costs less to ship from Chicago to Sacramento and San Francisco than from Chicago to Elko in Nevada and that this difference is so great that passengers desiring to go East from Elko frequently send to Sacramento or San Francisco to purchase their tickets so as to have the advantage of the lower rates. It is furthermore asserted that the freight tariff from Chicago to Elko is higher than from Chicago to Japan. One can hardly credit these statements so improbable do they appear, but the history of some of these railways during the last few years has been such as to prepare the mind to believe almost any extortion might be practiced upon a community so dependent upon the railway for transportation as Nevada has the misfortune to be. It appears to be a part of the settled policy of most of the railway financiers, to take advantage of the necessities of the communities through which they pass and put on as high rates as the business of the country can possibly carry. We suppose the same is true, in some measure in regard to all other enterprises, but the magnitude of the undertaking is so great as to secure the builders of a line of railway against competition, and thus to enable them to tax the products of the country as heavily as it is possible to tax them and not entirely stop production, while in most other enterprises that materially affect the business of the community at large the necessary amount of capital invested is not such as to exclude rivalry. It is this feature that renders the transportation question a matter of general and quasi political concern.

In other respects the railways differ from [illegible] regarded in law as public enterprises so far that they are [illegible] to run [illegible] the farms of private citizens and appropriate such private property to their own use against the will of the owner, under the laws and constitutional provisions for taking private property for public use. The right of "eminent domain," as the lawyers call the right to take property without the owner's consent, belongs to the Government alone, and can be exercised only in case the property to be thus appropriated is needed for some public purpose—never for a private purpose. So say the constitutions and the decisions, and yet the Government takes the lands of a farmer against his protest and bestows them upon the railway company, because the building of a railway is a public work. How does it come then that it is not a public work for the purpose of preventing extortionate rates? If the railway is so far public that a private citizen's property may be taken for it on the ground of public welfare, why are not similar considerations of public welfare to prevail when the shoe is on the other foot? What sort of logic is it that makes the railways a public work when it is solely for the benefit of the company to have it so, but declares them to be private enterprises when it is for the interest of the producers and shippers to have them treated as public? If they are public for the purpose of seizing the farmer's land, they ought to be public for the purpose of carrying his freight, and they ought as public carriers to be subject to such restrictions and regulations as the general welfare manifestly requires. When their public character is thus recognized, and not till that time will it be possible to prevent such oppressive discriminations as that mentioned in the dispatch above referred to, and the thousand others only less unjust that are daily taking place all over the country.

HIGHLY IMPROBABLE

The following precious bit of intelligence appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle as a Washington City dispatch under date of August 24th:

> The official statement that the Government has not furnished the Indians with arms through the Peace Commission is discredited. It is positively [illegible] by those well informed in the proceedings of the Peace Commission, that rifles have been furnished the Indians.

Of such sensational stuff is sentiment made up against the Indian policy of the Government. That there is not a shadow of truth in this ridiculous dispatch is as certain as that there has been a Peace Commission, and yet it is highly probable there will be found a very considerable number of persons ready to believe it. The general onslaught made by the press and the people upon the Peace Policy, under the absurd notion that that policy was in some way the cause of the Modoc troubles has worked up the case against the Administration so well that nothing is too ridiculous, apparently for credence. That any "official statement" from the government should have been deemed necessary, or that the compiler of the Atlantic and Pacific Association's dispatch should have treated the matter as one that admitted of question, is itself a sufficient illustration of the length to which a senseless clamor may affect public opinion.

A BURNT CHILD DREADS FIRE

Our neighbor of the Bulletin has become anxious again on the question of our soundness in the Republican faith. We really hope our neighbor will not suffer himself to lose any rest on our account. We can readily see that a person whose political feet have slipped a great many times causing him to fall over into the ranks of the enemy would naturally be a little timorous himself and solicitous for others but having been blessed with pretty fair staying qualities, we have been spared the experience that makes our neighbor so very cautious. We feel entirely safe in laughing at such a farce as that of the recent primaries of both parties and we venture to affirm that most if not all of the old, sure footed Republicans can enjoy a good healthy side splitter at the expense of their brethren in the faith without the slightest compunctions or qualms of conscience afterwards. If the wave of the zeal of new converts could only continue would not they do grand work?

A MODEL INDIAN AGENT AND AGENCY

About nine years ago Father Wilbur took charge of the Yakima Agency, as Agent. Then the Agency was in debt about [illegible],000. Now it does not owe a dollar, and has standing to its credit of the appropriation for the quarter ending June 30 an unexpended balance of $8000 or $9000. During this period nothing has been purchased on credit, and the accounts of the Agency, up to the close of the last quarter have been audited and passed by the department.

A school is maintained upon the Agency at which [illegible] Indian children are boarded, clothed and taught an English education. Besides this, the children at the schools are all taught to work, the boys learning trades and farming and gardenwork and the girls housework, dressmaking and the like. Father Wilbur has great confidence in the civilizing power of industry. Upon this Agency the doctrine that work is worship, is both taught and practised. Among the Indians are many good mechanics—such as blacksmiths, wagonmakers, shoemakers and carpenters. During this summer sixteen double sets of harness were made by Indians reared and educated at the Agency.

During the past year Father Wilbur has procured at Portland a portable steam saw mill and set it up in the timber about ten miles from the Agency. This mill is capable of cutting 10,000 feet of timber per day and one way or another affords profitable labor for about 300 Indians. It is worth, where it stands $7,000 and strange to say, it did not cost the Government a cent. It was paid for out of the moneys received by the agent for the sale of the pasturage on the agency to stock growers. Truly, this is a model agent and agency. If the politicians who "hunger and thirst after" these agencies, could show such a record as this, "they might talk." How different from the palmy days just prior to 1860, when Bob Metcalf made in three years $40,000 in cash, as Agent at the Siletz, and left the Indians worse than he found them, save probably an indirect contribution to their numbers.

AN EASY WAY OF [illegible]

There is no occupation in which men engage that exacts more drudgery than that of an editor. This is especially true of the conducting of a daily newspaper. Many a poor brain-weary individual has wished some [illegible] of humanity might invent or discover a way to save a part, at least, of the labor of his daily tread-mill life—would produce an automatic machine that would grind out editorial discussion of the issues before the world, but no ingenuity has as yet proved equal to this feat. The next best thing to this machine is, perhaps that adopted by the editor of the daily Statesman of Salem, whose plan of operation we shall not characterize by any specific name, but shall illustrate by an example which will enable every one to form a correct idea of the labor-saving plan no matter by what name he may call it. The New York Times of August 14th under the head "Chaff for Farmers" had the following excellent editorial [illegible] which must have cost some brain-work, and which did duty as the editorial "leader" in the Statesman of August 27th, without alteration, mark, comment or credit, and we are morally certain saved the editor of the Statesman a deal of sweating.

Three Democratic Conventions, held in the widely separated States of Maine, Maryland, and Ohio have within a few days passed resolutions which are chiefly significant for the desire they express to convert the discontent among the farmers into capital for the Democrats. Without any definite ideas as to the causes or character of this discontent, the Conventions in Ohio and Maine resolved as follows:

> That, although always constituting a large majority of the American people the agriculturists have never demanded of the Government, State or Federal any special privilege, have never infested the halls of Congress or the Legislature with lobbies and rings, but, on the contrary have suffered under discriminating and unjust laws until forbearance has ceased to be a virtue. We hereby pledge our sincere and honest efforts to obtain for them a redress of their grievances and equal and exact justice.

In Maryland, the Convention having better taste, said more briefly:

> "That we earnestly deprecate the unjust and discriminating laws under which the agricultural interests of the country have suffered, and we hereby pledge the best efforts of the party to obtain for them a redress of their grievances and equal justice."

But the spirit of these resolutions is the same and they have a common purpose. The Democrats seeing no hope in anything else have determined to attempt to rebuild their shattered party on the discontent among the farmers. The idea is not altogether devoid of shrewdness and in endeavoring to carry it into practice the Democrats will have the benefit of experience in such matters. Since their political fortunes were wrecked in the destruction of slavery they have made everybody's wrongs their own, provided always that everybody was white. In all these efforts they have failed and we see no reason for believing that in the present case their failure will not be equally notable.

The American farmers are not fools although Democratic conventions appear to assume that they are. If they read these resolutions they will read them with sufficient care to separate the wheat from the chaff. Their first difficulty will be to find a reason for believing that the Democrats having the opportunity would practice the gospel they have taken to preaching with such fervor. There is nothing in the history of the Democratic party to prove that it is sincere in this sudden sympathy for the farmers. It certainly was not looking to the elevation and interests of the agriculturists when it fought so desperately in Congress and afterward in the field to keep millions of tillers of the soil in slavery. The farmers of the country cannot forget that it was the Democratic party which tried to degrade and cheapen their labor by keeping it in competition with that of slaves. It is nothing to the purpose that the crops of the two sections of the country were as they still are radically different. The great fact in Democratic history which the farmers cannot forget is the persistent disregard it showed for the rights of man. Because of this fact they must necessarily doubt the sincerity of this new conversion.

But admitting that the Democrats will do all that they can the farmers will naturally inquire what it is that they can do as a political combination. The chief purpose of the farmers organization as it affects other classes is to obtain cheaper transportation. It is an admitted grievance that the moving of crops is altogether too costly and the farmers are seeking among themselves for a remedy. In the main this search has been conducted with a forbearance and intelligence that cannot be too highly praised. Where they have erred it has been due to the machinations of demagogues who have got ahead of the Democratic party in wearing hayseed in their hair. Individual farmers have given utterance to hasty expressions but the Granges have not declared that forbearance has ceased to be a virtue. What can the Democrats do to help the farmers? When they get control of the Federal Government do they propose to move the crops at the public expense or to pass a law requiring the railroads to do it at a specified sum? Or do they propose to enter upon a gigantic system of internal improvement by the Federal Government and furnish the farmers with new [illegible] lines of transportation to the markets of the world? There is no farmer silly enough to believe that the Democratic party would do anything of the kind. There are few farmers who would not resent the Democratic party in a policy which would be so subversive of the fundamental principle of the American Government.

Nor could the Democratic party do much more if it controlled the State Governments unless it possessed them all, and was animated everywhere by a purpose to sacrifice all interests to the good of the farmers, which is not probable. Our present railroad system is largely of Democratic creation. In its infancy the party was dominant in many of the States. The unjust and discriminating laws are largely of Democratic manufacture and most of them have been on the statute books for years. The Democrats if they were in possession of the State Governments might do something to relieve what they call the agricultural interest. But they could do nothing in the spirit of their resolutions. They could not compel railroads to carry grain at a cent a bushel. They could not build competing lines and cheapen transportation by competition. They could not confer upon the farmers any special privileges for the sufficient reason that the farmers would not permit them to do it. Their sense of justice is stronger than that of Democratic Conventions.

These resolutions are in truth nothing but chaff all the way through and nobody knows it better than the farmers. The effort to paralyze their great movement by giving it a political character will meet with no encouragement from them. In all of their objects except that of cheapening transportation the Granges have already answered their purpose. They have secured the farmers cheaper implements, accurate knowledge of the crops of the country and the enlightenment that comes from more extended and intimate social intercourse. The Granges have, besides, become a moral power and have opened the way to the intelligent discussion of the transportation question which must result in providing a remedy for present evils. As a final answer to the Democratic resolutions the farmers will remember that a Republican Senate has appointed a committee to gather all available knowledge on the subject. While the Democrats are making vague promises this committee, having on it such Republicans as Senators Conkling and Windom is hard at work and will be ready in December to give the farmers a mass of information concerning the transportation question which will be invaluable in helping them out of their troubles.

TUESDAY MORNING SEPTEMBER 2 1873

CITY.

BRITISH BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.—In accordance with the rules of this society a meeting will be held at the office of Messrs Corbett & Macleay on Wednesday 3d inst at 7 30 o'clock P M. As business of importance will be transacted a full attendance is desired. We are informed that although this society can claim an existence scarcely exceeding one year and a half it is in a flourishing condition and has a prosperous membership. This society is organized purely for benevolent purposes as the name indicates. By its active and prompt efforts to relieve want, and alleviate suffering wherever found this society is worthy of being classed with the best and most commendable organized charities of Portland. It has already done much to assist the unfortunate subjects of Great Britain who have required the gentle ministrations of charity. Whenever such objects of benevolence have been reported and brought to the notice of the members this society have gone forward with alacrity and acted with promptness in the dispensation of its charities. There are no doubt many persons who owe their allegiance to the English crown in this city who have not yet attached themselves to this society. A cordial invitation is extended to such persons to join the society co-operate with it and encourage the organization by their presence. Its noble objects commend itself to the benevolent and charitable everywhere.

ASSESSMENT ROLLS.—Last Saturday the county Board of Equalization concluded its labors, having gone all over the assessment rolls, adjusting equalizing and making all necessary alterations. After having performed this labor, the Board adjourned. The Assessor is now required to make out three copies of the assessment roll—one to be sent to the office of the Secretary of State one for the use of the Sheriff of the county and one for the County Clerk. The copy sent to the office of the Secretary of State will be examined by the State Board of Equalization. This body will meet on the 9th inst. at Salem. Some time will be required for the completion and comparison of the three rolls required as a large amount of labor is involved. It will be utterly impracticable for the Assessor to finish the work by the time the Board will convene at Salem. Doubtless to accommodate that officer, the Board will extend the time for the completion of the rolls for several weeks. Most of the assessment rolls for other counties will be finished and sent to the board at its meeting. During the time the Board are engaged in examining the taxes for other counties, Mr. Dolan will have time to finish the rolls for Multnomah county.

THE HALF HOLIDAY.—As may be pretty generally known from notice elsewhere published nearly or quite all the wholesale and jobbing houses in our city have agreed that from September 13th inst. on each Saturday, they will close their places of business at 1 o'clock P M. Those who first took steps to inaugurate this movement had no great amount of faith in its being successful, but on making a canvass of the larger business firms it was found that they nearly all indorsed the step most heartily, and were willing to enter into the arrangement at once. The accomplishment of this is no insignificant revolution in business circles, but one which will work to the advantage of all concerned if faithfully carried out. There is no danger that Americans will grow inattentive to business, and any step that has for its object the distraction temporarily of their minds from the strain upon their system consequent upon a continuous and intense application to the interests of their calling. We are certain that the overworked clerks will gladly hail the step which thus gives them a half holiday.

CALIFORNIA—GUSSIE TELFAIR.—The steamer California will make the next trip to Sitka, in place of the Gussie Telfair, while the latter steamer undergoes some much needed repairs. On the last trip to Sitka, the Telfair encountered heavy gales, which carried away the foretopmast, necessitating the putting in of the steamer to Nanaimo for repairs. A portion of the upper deck was discovered to be in a very leaky condition. During heavy seas or rain, the water came through the flat roof wetting berths and passengers. New canvas, painted with waterproof composition, is being put down over the leaky portion of the deck. A new main yard and a topmainmast will also be placed in before the steamer is ready to resume the line. Meantime the California will take the place temporarily.

A WEDDING NOTICE.—The audience in the Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning, heard an announcement which, though novel in this community was quite appropriate under the circumstances. It was an invitation to a marriage which is to be solemnized this evening at 9 o'clock. The bride is the eldest daughter of the Pastor of the Church, and it is rumored that the bridegroom is a young lawyer of this city. A general invitation was most cordially tendered in select and befitting phrase to all friends to offer their congratulations to the happy pair after the ceremonies this evening at the Pastor's residence. If all the friends accept the invitation there will be a crowd.

IN READINESS.—After several weeks repairing and overhauling, the steamer Gov Grover is again ready for active service. Among the improvements made, we note that of a new spark catcher on the stack. In addition the cabin has been painted the roof treated to a new coat of fire-proof paint, and the deck floor covered with new lumber. This boat looks as clean and bright as when the trial trip was made and never was in better running trim than at the present. She will start up the river this morning bound for Fairfield for a load of freight. As the fall trade increases, the other boats of the company—the Shoshone Vancouver and Beaver—will be added to the line.

LECTURE.—The large audience room of the Taylor street M. E. Church was last evening crowded by an appreciative audience. The learned divine, Rev Bishop Peck took up the subject previously announced "Science and the Spirit World," and handled it in an able and eloquent manner. It would be beyond our power to give a synopsis of his lecture that would do it justice. The large audience listened with profound attention till the close and all appeared convinced of the ability of the speaker and the correctness of his views as well as the soundness of his logic. He certainly is entitled to the high place which he occupies among the platform speakers of the day.

PLACED ON BOARD.—The steam cylinders formerly used on the E[illegible] after having been overhauled, and put in condition for service again were placed on board the new steamer Beaver. Work has so far advanced towards completion on this boat that she was towed down to the Iron Works yesterday and the boiler is being placed in position. All the woodwork of the craft will be finished by the 16th inst when nothing further will remain to be done but to put the machinery together. By the last of the present month the trial trip will be made.

CONSOLIDATED.—Quite recently we are informed the two Posts of the Grand Army of the Republic—Baker and Canby—in this city have consolidated and will hereafter be known as the Baker-Canby Post. The first meeting subsequent to the consolidation of the posts will be held on Thursday of the present week at the hall over Schnitzer Bros' store, for the election of officers for the ensuing year. A full attendance is requested.

JUDGE SAWYER.—A letter was received a few days ago by His Honor Judge Deady from Judge Sawyer who is now in San Francisco. It was the intention of Judge Sawyer to have sailed for Portland on the [illegible] but he postponed the trip until the next steamer. Judge Sawyer comes to Portland to preside in conjunction with Judge Deady at the regular term of the United States Circuit Court which convened yesterday.

AT [illegible].—At the [illegible] ran aground several times on the upper Willamette the Shoshone which was sent to help her off did considerable [illegible] wheel by [illegible]. The last few weeks repairs have been made [illegible] wheel of the Shoshone the machinery overhauled, and now the boat is all ready to enter into the fall trade [illegible] the company owning her.

CONSTANT TO KALAMA.—The steamer Dixie Thompson went down the river early on Sunday morning to Kalama carrying away Wilson's Circus Company. The steamer returned in time to make her customary trip. Last evening the Company gave a performance at Kalama and from thence will proceed to the Sound towns and Victoria. The Company will then visit this city and proceed to the State Fair.

LUMBER.—The late fire has given an impetus to the lumber traffic. All the mills in and adjacent to the city are running to the extent of their capacities and cannot supply the increased demand. Cedar lumber in large quantities is arriving every few days from down the river. Two large scows are unloading lumber at the O. S. N. Co.'s wharf from [illegible] lumber which will be used for building purposes.

SIGNAL LIGHT DISPLAYED.—In accordance with announcement made some time ago signal lights were first displayed from the new lighthouse at Cape Foulweather on the 20th of August. Since then the lights have been displayed nightly. A gentleman just from that point informs us that everything connected with the beacon is in splendid trim and the work meets with general satisfaction.

BROUGHT UP.—Yesterday the steamers Shoshone and Vancouver were towed up from the foot of A street to the foot of Alder. As soon as the new wharf at the foot of Alder street now in process of construction is finished the Willamette River Transportation Co's boats will land there regularly. Until the wharf is completed the Grover will continue to land at the old place.

IN THE RIVER.—The Astoria boat reports that both the barks Otago and Windermere are both in the river in tow of the Astorian. When the steamer passed St Helens the Windermere was aground. She will probably be got off and arrive to-day with the Otago. These vessels are both in ballast and come hither under charter to load with grain for England.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE.—An excellent opportunity to secure good bargains will doubtlessly be afforded at the Assignee's sale to-day at 10 o'clock A. M., by G. T. Myers at A. B. Richardson's Auction Rooms. Some most eligibly located property in the city as well as desirable tracts of outside lands will be offered and must be sold. Read the advertisement.

GAS HOLDER.—The new gas holder now in course of construction at the corner of F and Sixth streets is nearly finished. The sides are all up above the top of the brick reservoir and securely riveted together. The top of the holder will soon be on when it will be ready for the reception of the gas.

WATER MAINS.—The steamer Carrie took away a large quantity of water main yesterday to Vancouver. These mains will be used by the Vancouver Water Company.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Steamer due to-night.

The last man goes to-day—he belongs to the circus.

Our merchants are adding largely to their stocks.

Wells Fargo & Co's new building is nearly roofed.

Circus gone to the Sound—to return again shortly.

Strong indications of rain—clouds and a southern wind.

No abatement in the building of new stores etc, in the burnt district.

The Ladies Relief Society will hold a meeting at the usual place to-day at 2 o'clock.

A number of sailors were engaged yesterday in reefing the sails of the bark Wetterhorn.

The Tiger Engine Company will meet at their hall this evening, at the usual hour.

The steamers Dixie Thompson and Fannie Troup are being overhauled at the boneyard.

The hull of the ferryboat, which is now [illegible] on the east side of the river, is being [illegible].

Only one petition for divorce has been filed in the County Clerk's office since the adjournment of the Circuit Court.

The steamer Idaho is lying at the Dalles. She will soon undergo repairs. Meantime the Daisy Ainsworth takes the Dalles-Cascades line.

There will be a meeting of the British Benevolent Society to-morrow evening. It is to be hoped the membership will be fully represented.

Those persons who receive their mail at the Scappoose postoffice complain that it arrives irregularly. Will the proper persons look into the matter?

The Oregon Steamship Company have concluded to rebuild both the steamers Shoo-Fly and Alice which were destroyed by fire last spring in the basin. Both will be ready for the fall and winter trade.

The sunburnt noses and tanned cheeks visible here and there upon the streets indicate that the possessors are late arrivals from a country trip that summer is nearly over and the tourist is on the home stretch.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

The Board of Trustees of East Portland met last evening at the usual hour. President Van Cleave in the Chair.

Members Present—Messrs Buckman Hoyt Papé, Severson Stephens and Van Cleave.

Minutes of the last regular meeting read and approved.

COMMUNICATIONS

A communication was read from John De Borst asking that the license which had been granted him some time ago to sell liquor in quantities not less than one quart be changed so as to allow him to vend in quantities less than one quart. He also asked that the $13 which he had paid for the unexpired license be allowed to go to the credit of the license which the change would require him to take out. The request was granted.

CLAIMS

The following claims against the city were audited and warrants ordered drawn in liquidation of the same. J. A. Newell, $75, F. R. Neale $50. W. S. Gordon, $6. A. J. Hoyt $14 64. J street improvement $20 75. Water street improvement $25 50. L street improvement $1[illegible].

ORDINANCES

An ordinance in relation to the assessment and collection of taxes read a first and second time and laid over under the rules.

RESOLUTION

Mr Severson offered the following resolution:

SCHOOL DIRECTORS' MEETING.

The School Directors held a special meeting last evening at the office of Dr. Coltner. Present J. S. Coltner and J. C. Cartwright Directors, R. J. Ladd Clerk.

MAYOR'S COMMUNICATION.

The following communication from his Honor Mayor Failing, was read:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, PORTLAND
Oregon Sept 1 1873.

To the Directors of School District No 1—GENTLEMEN: During the last 24 hours two other cases of smallpox have been developed and it is believed that there has been more or less exposure to the disease.

The Board of Health having employed a physician to vaccinate any who might apply free of charge there is no excuse for any remaining unvaccinated.

When a rule to that effect was given a majority of your Board was notified verbally and suggestion made that an order be made by the Board that no child should be admitted to the schools who is without having previously been vaccinated.

The Board of Health now instruct me to press upon your attention the necessity of at once issuing such an order to the teachers having in charge the respective schools under your direction.

Very respectfully yours &c
HENRY FAILING
Mayor and Chairman Board of Health

After reading the above communication the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved That the commencement of the yearly term of the public schools of District No 1 for Multnomah county is postponed until the third Monday in September 1873.

Resolved That no children shall be admitted in the public schools unless they shall have been vaccinated.

On motion the Board then adjourned.

PERSONAL.

Mr H Ebright, general overseer of the work of constructing the lighthouse at Cape Foulweather arrived in the city a few days ago.

Mr Geo L. Plympton, Superintendent of lighthouse repairs for the district took his departure a few days ago for New Dungeness. Appropriations have been made for the construction of a steam fog signal at that point and Mr Plympton goes over to personally superintend the work. Should no unexpected delays in the work occur it is expected to have the signal ready for service within two months from date.

No man should be without a good suit of clothing while BECK & WALDMAN are offering goods at remarkably low prices. You will be astonished when you take a look at their stock which has been and is being increased to such an extent that more space must be had to give place to the new arrivals. Don't wait, but improve the opportunity to invest at the present time. You will never regret your purchases of Beck & Waldman S W cor of Washington and Front streets.

HOTTENTOTS GATHERING BUCHU for Helmbold's Extract has become almost a historical picture. The great composition of Dr Helmbold's Buchu attests the important fact that thousands upon thousands need a diuretic medicine. For Dropsy Gravel Kidney Complaint and all diseases of the urinary organs either in male or female there has never been a remedy equal to Helmbold's Buchu. Its imitators are mere trash. Helmbold's is the old reliable stand and remedy.

AN ARTICLE OF TRUE MERIT.—Brown's Bronchial Troches are the most popular article in this country or Europe for Throat Diseases and Coughs and this popularity is based upon real merit.

MEDICAL SCIENCE never gave the world a nobler boon than when one of its men of genius gave us DR WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. Consumption Coughs Colds and Bronchitis can be cured. Take it in time and you will not regret it.

Edward Bayer Esq Horton Kings Co N S writes that an astonishing cure has been effected on his daughter by the use of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. The whole spine became diseased she lost the use of her limbs and her back was rounded up like a bow in consequence of having taken cold after having been inoculated for the kine pock. She is now well.

WE pledge our reputation on the assertion that any educated physician after a careful examination of the recipe will say that Parsons' Purgative Pills possess more merit than any other pill now offered for sale.

The Symptoms of Health.

Health has its symptoms as well as disease. The clear eye the fresh complexion the steady hand the firm step the unclouded brain briskness of spirits and a disposition to look on the bright side of anything are indications that the animal machinery is in perfect working order. Happy are they whose running gear of life is in this excellent running condition and fortunate too are they who know how to bring it into such a condition if disarranged. All who have experienced or witnessed the effect of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters upon the broken down [illegible] desponding victims of dyspepsia liver complaint fever and ague rheumatism nervous debility or premature decay know that in this supreme tonic and alterative there exists a specific principle which reaches the very source of the trouble and effects an absolute and permanent cure. E Pluribus Unum might be aptly inscribed on the label for the preparation is a plurality of remedies combined into one irresistible antidote.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL.

The second concert of the Bishop troupe at Masonic Hall last evening, was, if possible, a greater success than that of Friday night. The programme was an excellent one the audience was thoroughly en rapport with the performers—as was attested by their enthusiastic greeting and numerous encores—and there was an evident desire on the part of the Madame and her supporters to reciprocate this good feeling. Madame Bishop in the air "Angels ever bright and fair" (from Handel's Theodora) and Rockel's elegant little chansonette "La Bayarde" fully sustained herself. Mr Wilkie's "Tell me Mary how to woo thee," a charming little song, was rendered with taste. This gentleman did much toward redeeming himself from a rather unfortunate rendering of "Come into the Garden Maud" in the concert preceding. Mr Gottschalk's "Nazareth" (Gounod) was simply superb although it may be questioned if the sacred ballad pleased the majority of his auditors quite as much as did the sprightlier "La S[illegible]" (Niedermeyer). The duettos "Da Quel Di" (Donizetti) and "Sol [illegible]" ([illegible])—the former by Madame Bishop and Mr Gottschalk and the latter by the Madame and Mr Wilkie were magnificently rendered. Mr Frank Gilder in his "Tarantelle" and "La Serenade" fully confirmed us in our previously expressed commendations. We would be pleased to add to the encomiums lavished by the audience but they were most gratifying and conclusive endorsement of his mechanical skill and keen artistic taste. He won furious encores on all his performances. We cannot omit to mention that every part of the programme was heartily encored. The last concert of this troupe will be given on Wednesday evening next. A rich treat is in store.

To-day this troupe will go to Salem where they will give an entertainment this evening. We can heartily recommend them to our Salem friends and hope that they (the latter) will not suffer the occasion to pass without listening to what is beyond question the most worthy company of talented musicians that has ever visited this State. We wish the troupe all the success they deserve in their visit to the Capital.

This preparation is the result of Dr Coleman's experiments with the [illegible] in the U S Marine Hospital in San Francisco in 1871 and 1872 where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the prompt results, and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office, 405 Kearney street, San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful yet harmless febrifuge and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies of those diseases are entirely avoided.

LOVE'S WAKING.

[From the Athenæum.]

Is love a dream? In truth, they tell me so,
And pity me because I cannot know
That tender glances, whispers sweet and low,
Thrill for a summer's day and are no more.

But this I know, that if it be a dream
I would not be as wise as they, to deem
That fair things can be false and when they seem
To promise most, that we should least adore.

They speak of waking from that dream, while I
Know but one waking, and that is not nigh,
For it will come when she I love shall die,
Then I shall wake to sorrow evermore.

JEFFERSON DAVIS' SPEECH

The following seems a fuller report of the speech delivered by Jefferson Davis before the Southern Historical Convention than has been published in the Eastern papers. It is taken from the Richmond Enquirer of Aug. 19.

"At 11 o'clock the Convention assembled to welcome Mr. Davis. The large ball-room was crowded with ladies, and when he entered he was received with applause and standing. Mr. Davis was introduced by Admiral Semmes. Gov. Letcher, as the organ of the convention, said it was no less his pleasure than his duty to introduce President Davis and after a few eloquent remarks, mixed with apt poetic allusions, he bade him welcome, thrice welcome, to this our home, and to the hearts, the affections, and the hospitalities of our people. [Great applause.]

SPEECH OF MR. DAVIS.

Mr. Davis said he deeply felt this kind welcome. He always felt at home in Virginia, and why [illegible] did not? She gave her bosom to be racked by all the horrors of war and freely shed her best blood. She was now lifting her [illegible] from its effects, and he was glad to see her [illegible] fields and pastures, her fertile valleys and picturesque mountains, which here, like no where else, were clothed from base to summit. All were beautiful; yet there was here something above them all. Her men excelled her soil, and her noble women excelled even the men. Well did he remember when the tide of war had swept away the men into the army and scattered the negroes, [illegible] all save the fences, which were only spared the destroying flame because they were of stone—how the women of the Shenandoah Valley, whose hands had never known an hour's toil in the field, had made crops, and whenever the Confederate army came along had ready-made Confederate flags, and were always happy to aid the cause and feed Confederate soldiers. Too long had we delayed the vindication of our cause. Many of the actors had been called home to their fathers; yet perhaps the delay had [illegible] who felt most deeply found it hard to uncover their whole heart. The prospects were brighter now, and 'truth crushed to earth would rise again.' We had been more cheated than conquered by the declarations of the Federal President, Congress, and Generals. Would there have been a surrender if it we had expected what has followed? We were told the war was merely carried on to maintain the Union. Had we foreseen the result, we would to-day have been free. He referred to the objects of the association, and said there were now scattered scraps of history that should be collected to perpetuate the deeds of our fallen soldiers [illegible] the action of our country; that great care should be taken with the collection of every scrap, as mankind was deeply interested in the constitutional causes that led to the war.

He alluded to the commercial rights of the South, and how they had suffered, and the decadence of both commerce and liberty. In referring to the moral and religious causes, and the [illegible] we did not succeed, we were [illegible] wrong, he said that in a cause like this the great Creator must have looked down with an approving smile; that we do not always see the workings for good in the ways of the Great Father, that our chastisement might be designed to lead to the triumph of the principles for which we struggled. He had received a letter from a gentleman in Massachusetts, in which [illegible] that mankind owed a debt of gratitude to the Southern people for their efforts in behalf of their constitutional liberty [illegible]; that our story had only been half told, but when men came to look upon it without passion, and the whole truth had been told, would we then be condemned before the world? No, no! The facts must be gotten together. It was due to the [illegible] dead who had fought for truth and died in a patriotic cause. While this organization cannot write the history of this war, yet it could collect the material from which future historians might obtain the facts. Would not our enemies, or, in the phrase of the day, our Northern brethren—make up at [illegible] and take the hand of oppression from off our Southern daughters, or are we in that decadence of all that is honorable, to be brought to the condition of which the Irish poet sang:

"Unprized are thy sons till they have learned to betray;
Un[illegible] they live, if they shame not their sires;
And the torch that would light them to dignity's way,
Must be caught from the pile where their country expires."

If thus we must seek the road to preferment, who would not live a life of obscurity in preference? He had a hope in the future founded on the fact that he had never seen a reconstructed Southern woman, and while the men of the present day might yield the principles for which they struggled, yet he hoped the children who succeed them would grow up to maintain and perpetuate them and redeem all that we had lost.

He thanked the audience for their kindly expressions of good will, and as to the members [illegible] he hoped that their steps might always be forward to prosperity, and following in the steps of that grand old Early, who never flinched during the war, and never failed since our flag went down, they were sure to [illegible] their object.

O. P. MORTON ON BACK PAY.—A Cincinnati dispatch of August 23d says Senator Morton, of Indiana, and Governor Noyes, of Ohio, opened the Republican State campaign at Athens, Ohio, to-day. The meeting was said to be the largest Republican gathering in that locality since the war. At the close of Senator Morton's remarks on the salary grab, the following occurred:

Gov. Noyes said: "A note has been handed up from the crowd, asking what the Senator has done with his back pay. He feels a little delicate about answering, but I think we will press the question."

Senator Morton then said, "Well, I can say I have not taken it, and never intended to." [Cries of "Good!" "We will vote for you," and loud applause.] "Immediately after the passage of the bill I had an interview with my distinguished colleague, Mr. Pratt, of Indiana, and we then agreed that we would not take it, believing that the principal involved in the back-pay bill was not a sound one; and I desire expressly to say that while I entertain that view myself in regard to the principles of the back pay, it is due to other members of Congress who voted for it and received it, to say that they thought they had a right to that which was sanctioned by precedents, by the votes and actions of many of the ablest men who had gone before them. It is a matter on which men have a right to differ, and differ honestly. I have simply stated my convictions, while I want to do justice to their motives."

A BAD AND UNGRATEFUL BOY.—A boy raised up in a place which has no swimming bath is liable to become a bad man in the end, no matter what other good influences surround him. The Virginia Chronicle relates a case in point, as follows:

A short time since a young boy who had always borne an excellent reputation and was the pride of loving sisters and doting parents, was arrested and held to answer on a charge of highway robbery. While incarcerated in jail he was visited by his aged and grief-stricken father. The old gentleman talked to his son as only a father could in such painful circumstances, and all the while great tears were chasing each other down his wrinkled face. He referred to the tender care with which the boy had been brought up, to the fact that not one of the family name had been arrested for three generations, "and now," said he, "you are bringing disgrace and gray hairs to us all, and wringing the heart of your poor old mother until it is nearly broken." This was too much for the young culprit, he broke down completely, and with a leer in his eye and a contemptuous toss of the head, he addressed the agonized parent in this eloquent and pathetic little speech: "Oh give us a rest."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

MONDAY EVENING, September 1, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 116.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 85½ buying; 86½ selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 900 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 13s 7d@12s 10d; Club, 13s.

Advices from the East of latest dates show that apart from the gold board clique's operations in New York, which may possibly produce the effect of bulling gold to a higher figure than it has been since spring, money is easy and to be obtained at low rates of interest. Telegraphic reports says that the gold clique proposes trying again the tactics which led to "Black Friday," and the "bears" are preparing an appeal to the President to interfere on this occasion in time to prevent the bulls from succeeding. Money, however, outside of Wall street, is plentiful, and there can be but little doubt but that an immense amount of unemployed capital will flow into that locality should a temporary depression occur. Thousands who do not venture their funds in the vortex of rise and fall, or ebb and flow of stock board transactions would not hesitate at advancing funds upon short time where principal and interest were not in the least endangered. So, without Presidential interference, the bears may be enabled to checkmate their opponents, the struggle, however, will be desperate, as once successfully broken the "ring" would not recover its solidity very readily.

Altogether the present week promises to be one characterized by more than an ordinary degree of life, and with crop movements, the busy, brisk run of fall trade and natural watchfulness upon the part of business men generally, Portland must certainly experience a satisfactory season during the approaching months.

An Enormous Product.

The exports of Petroleum in 1861 amounted to 1,500,000 gallons. In 1872 more than 150,000,000 gallons were exported, and this year upwards of 130,000,000 gallons have been sent abroad—the largest amount for the same length of time ever exported. But this is said to be far below our ability to export. Producers sought by a combination last year to keep up the prices but the daily production being excessively large, values shrunk notwithstanding their efforts. Recently prices have declined to very low figures owing to a great increase in the quantity produced, and exporters who shipped to Europe previous to the late discoveries and [illegible] decline in prices will lose from [illegible] on every cargo. The Philadelphia Commercial List says that owing to the recent discoveries of Oil in new localities, making the supply in excess of the demand; prices for Crude have dropped [illegible], with a prospect of their going still lower. [illegible] now have so much Oil on their hands that they find it impossible to supply tank room until it can be sold, and as the production is still going on it is difficult to see how even the present low prices can be maintained.

Home Produce Market.

The week opens with no great amount of activity under this head. The offerings of Wheat are quite liberal, but exporters are very anxious to induce holders to make concessions, claiming that at the current rates for tonnage, and at the price in Liverpool, $1 70 per cental, is too high for this market. That a decline in freights is pending seems generally understood, but to what extent it will go seems more uncertain. Quotations in our home markets are unchanged from the figures given last week.

SMALL POX.
DOCTOR BORZEAU'S SMALL POX REMEDY, SAMUEL CORWIN, Proprietor, can be procured at all the Drug Stores in this city at the present time. As this medicine is proving an inestimable boon to those afflicted with that disease, no person should neglect the present opportunity of providing themselves with this valuable antidote.
Price ONE DOLLAR per bottle.

Portland, Oregon, Aug. 22, 1873.

MR. SAMUEL CORWIN—Sir: In justice to yourself and for the benefit of those who may be afflicted with the small pox, I am induced to give publicity to the following facts: About the 4th of July, 1873, I became very unwell, having severe pain in my head, back and limbs, which continued to increase in severity for three or four days, a very high fever set in, and I began to break out on my face, neck and body with what proved to be small pox. I procured of Dr. Fredland of the Central Drug Store, a bottle of your small pox remedy. Notwithstanding the severity of the attack I administered the medicine myself not in accordance with accompanying directions, but in about double doses. In three days all pain and fever disappeared. My recovery was extremely rapid notwithstanding frequent exposures by moving about from place to place while in a high fever which is generally considered fatal in that disease, and it is my firm conviction that under the ordinary treatment for that disease I would not be living to-day. I took of the medicine about two and a half bottles more perhaps than was necessary, not wishing to discontinue until a thorough cure was effected.
PETER BURK.

I know of my own knowledge that the foregoing statement is true in every particular.
